

Glory Days & Nights

She's got to pack her bags now
And she knows there's nothing left to say
She's holding back the tears
Just a few minutes left to catch the train
Without a peek back
She's running down the road to break the chain
Her mouth is feeling numb
She'll not be coming back, never again

After all those glory days
I am looking at the future
And I've learned to walk my way
After all those glory nights
I forget about the past
'cause I fought too many fights

He is sitting there
And he's trying to write a song
'bout all those glory nights
And about what went wrong
He is trying to sort
All those thoughts, straying in his mind
Things are coming up
That he was trying to leave far behind

After all those glory days
I am looking at the future
And I've learned to walk my way
After all those glory nights
I forget about the past
'cause I fought too many fights
